

Bluegrass Region

This region, centered around Lexington, is known for its bluegrass. However, bluegrass is not really blue — it's green.

In the spring, bluegrass produces bluish-purple buds that when seen in large fields give a rich blue cast to the grass.

Today those large “bluegrass” fields are home to some of the best known horse farms in the world. With more than 500 horse farms in and around Lexington, the area is known as the Horse Capital of the World.

The Woodford Reserve Distillery

Labrot & Graham Proprietors

Surrounded by some of Kentucky's most famous horse farms is a National Historic Landmark, the Woodford Reserve Distillery. Nestled in a lush green valley, visitors step back to the way bourbon was made when Elijah Pepper started making it here in 1812. Tours are offered Tuesday-Saturday starting at 10 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m., 2 p.m. & 3 p.m. (Open Sunday 12:30 p.m.- 4:30 p.m. April-October). Join us for our ever popular "Picnic on the Porch," Tuesday-Saturday, 11:30 a.m.- 2:00 p.m. April-October only. Or join us for our award winning "Holidays at Woodford Reserve" lunch held November-December. We are closed all major holidays.
